

CALLING ALL ARTISTS: JOIN THE CHALKUP21 MOVEMENT

CHALKUP21 is a Dover Arts Development (DAD) Project, a 17-mile walking trail, showcasing 9 fine examples of 21st Century coastal art and architecture along the Strait of Dover from Capel-le-Ferne to Deal.

Following an 18-month programme of curated walks, workshops and events the walk is now annotated with artists' interventions, providing a fantastic resource for artists.

Utilising social media avenues, artists and walkers alike have documented their physical and creative journeys while walking the CHALKUP21 trail, spreading the word through the growing collection of creative responses to the trail.

Be inspired by the website CHALKUP21.com

The website provides a valuable research tool and archive for artists with information on the trail, the 18-month programme and artists' responses to it.

CHALKUP21 is a special place full of opportunities for you to make your mark and join the growing community of artists inspired by the CHALKUP21 trail.

There's a Facebook group to join where you can interact with other artists interested in the trail: CHALKUP21 group

“I feel being part of a project involving practitioners from many different disciplines – art, architecture, design, conservation, geology, tourism etc. – has made for a very dynamic and discursive experience. This has been very beneficial (not to mention fascinating) in broadening both my sense of potential in what I do as an artist and my general knowledge of place and engagement.”

Louisa Love

“How does a place take root in a person? Dover has continued to gently take root in me, year after year, and as I continue to journey to other places, learning to experience places through the intimate, the microscopic, and the epic scales, through a grand sense of time.”

Anna Liu
